

Record Soviet Budget

Military Hike In Spending, Staggering

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced a record-breaking 1962 budget, including a staggering hike in military spending of almost 50 per cent over that originally planned in 1961.

The original 1961 figure was boosted tremendously last July because of U.S. military measures taken to meet the Berlin defense crisis, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said then.

The over-all budget for 1962 totals 81.9 billion rubles, Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, which began a session in the Grand Kremlin Palace today.

Garbuzov told the delegates defense expenditures in 1962 would total 13.4 billion rubles, or 16.7 per cent of the total, as compared with 9.22 billion rubles originally budgeted for 1961.

At the official rate of exchange, one ruble equals $1.11.

The new amount allotted to the Soviet armed forces is more than a billion rubles more than the total allotted on both a regular and emergency basis during 1961.

But this is no longer emergency financing, and it indicated the Soviet government expects world tension to stay at a high pitch during the coming year.

In the related field of science, which includes most programs of weapon development, the budget figure was set at 4.3 billion rubles. Last year it was 3.8 billion.

(The United States budgeted $46.6 billion for defense in 1962. However, comparison of Soviet and American budgets is almost impossible. Many Soviet military expenses are buried in allocations ostensibly for civilian production.)

The 1962 budget is 3.6 billion rubles bigger than last year's, but Garbuzov said the government actually planned to spend only 80.3 billion rubles.

He reported a surplus of 1.6 billion rubles for 1961 also.

Frank Piper Wins National Legion Post

Frank B. Piper, 66, East 17th, has been appointed a general member of the National Membership and Post Activities committee, according to an announcement made by Charles L. Bacon, national commander of the American Legion.

The appointment was confirmed by the National Executive Committee at its recent meeting, and a letter from Commander Bacon, dated Dec. 1, was received by Piper advising him of the honor.

The appointment is in recognition of the service which Piper has rendered to Post 16 and his own department. As membership chairman of Post 16, he has increased the membership to 340 and has a high record of securing members in the past two years. The term of the National membership and Post Activities Committee, will run until the close of the 1962 Fall meeting of the National Executive Committee.

Control System Scores Second Polaris Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Polaris missile raced several hundred miles Tuesday night in the second successful test of a new thrust control system.

The Navy, announcing the success, termed the control mechanism an "advanced device being evaluated for possible use in the third generation A3 Polaris, scheduled to become operational in 1964, with a range of 2,375 miles.

Train Ride To Freedom From East

Daring Engineer Hiacks Train With 24 Friends

BERLIN (AP) — A daring railroad engineer and 24 friends and relatives hijacked an East German train Tuesday night and roared at 50 miles an hour past startled border guards to safety in West Berlin.

"We knew we would make it," said Harry Deterling, 28, the engineer. He said food shortages and political pressure had made life unbearable in East Germany.

Seven passengers not in on the plot—including the angry conductor—chose to return to the Communist sector. An East German switching locomotive pulled the steam locomotive and eight cars of the escape train back over the little-used section of track to East Germany.

The well-planned escape—has been reported by the Communists were planning to block the section of track Dec. 10—came off without a hitch.

Border police, taken by surprise, didn't fire a shot.

Deterling said he began planning the escape last Thursday with Hartmut Lichy, his fireman, members of his family and friends. The escapees included the engineer's mother, wife and four children.

"Everybody was told to be at Oranienburg station for the departure of the regular late evening train to Albrechtshof. We were 21 in all. That included an 8-day-old baby born only a day before we planned the escape."

The other four got on at Falkensee, the next to last stop. Albrechtshof, the last stop on the line, is about a quarter of a mile short of the border.

Deterling said a transport policeman aboard and the conductor went wild when they realized the train wasn't stopping at Albrechtshof.

"But what could they do but shout?" Deterling related smilingly. "We had disconnected the emergency braking system. They couldn't stop the train."

Arrested Here Last Night

Bright Lights Are Downfall Of Youths In a Stolen Car

Failure of a driver of a stolen car to dim his headlights while approaching a Sedalia police patrol car, about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday, led to a string of events which finally ended in the apprehension of two juveniles who admitted escaping from a Illinois forestry camp, 22 miles west of Springfield, Ill., early Monday morning and the recovery of an automobile stolen at Bowling Green, Mo., Tuesday afternoon.

Officers W. N. Raines and Al Blankenship were driving east on their regular patrol in the 3100 block of East 12th. The car was coming from the east and failed to dim his lights. The officers turned around in front of the Little Red School House to follow the car and make a check, after Raines noticed in his rear view mirror the car had swerved into the center of the highway.

The officers started to follow the car and it pulled into the Coin-O-Matic Laundry on East 12th, and the officers drove on to the Hammond Service Station at 12th and Marshall on the pretense they were checking that place. The boys then pulled out on the highway and started toward town. The officers started following again and called headquarters for a license check, but in the meantime the boys started to pull into the Hudson Oil Co. station, changed their minds and pulled into the Broadway Drive-In instead.

The officers seeing the driver was a youth, pulled along side and ordered the driver out. The second youth had been asleep in the rear seat and got out of the car and walked around.

The driver was asked for his operator's license and he said he didn't have any. Officer Raines casually asked them "Did you steal this car?" and much to the NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy called today for a lowering of tariffs in a "new and bold" program to frustrate Communist plans for economic encirclement of the West.

He urged U.S. cooperation with the European Common Market, an association of six nations in which Great Britain has applied for membership. Some 90 per cent of free world industrial production may soon be concentrated in these two great markets, he said.

Helicopters Await Repair In Sedalia

Two strange looking aircraft landed at the Sedalia Municipal Memorial Airport this week and will be there for some time awaiting necessary repairs before taking off. They are two 11-passenger U.S. Army helicopters.

One of the big helicopters was enroute to Ft. Leonard Wood from Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., Sunday when it was forced down near Lincoln, Mo. Something went wrong and caused the motor to throw oil, and the pilot decided to descend immediately.

Then another helicopter from Ft. Leavenworth was assigned to take an inspection crew to the site to make an investigation, and that helicopter developed similar motor trouble. It was then decided to ferry the two helicopters to the Sedalia airport to be located there until a check could be made to ascertain the troubles.

Both were flown from Lincoln following Highway 65 and thence on over to the Municipal field. Tuesday, inspection crewmen arrived. It was indicated two new motors would be shipped to Sedalia and the change over to be made at the local field, rather than chance flying the big machines to a government field.

At Lincoln the landing of the helicopters attracted much attention from residents of the area who went to the scene to see them. At the local field several Sedalians have visited the field to take a look at a passenger-carrying helicopter.

People visiting the airport are warned to remain back of the fenced area and not go out on the parkway or ramp to get a closer view of the machines. The parking and ramp areas are closed to the public, on orders of the airport board of commissioners.

Water Discoloration In Buncheon System

An inky discoloration that have baffled local authorities showed up about 8:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Buncheon water system.

Mayor Forrest Bishop said about noon that he is taking samples of the water to the Missouri Division of Health in Jefferson City for analysis, and hoped to have the discoloration cleared up Wednesday.

Buncheon water is supplied through a deep well pressure system.

Four Planes Shot Down

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — Air Forces went into action today in the fighting between the United Nations and Katanga.

The U.N. announced two of its 15 jets had destroyed a Katanga jet and three other Katanga planes in an aerial cannon attack on Kolwezi base.

On the other side, a Katanga plane—a bomber converted from a German-made Dornier transport — raided the main Elisabethville airport held by U.N. troops, and dropped three bombs. A U.N. spokesman said there were no serious casualties or damage.

It was the second day of fighting brought on by Katanga resistance to a U.N. mandate to pacify the

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States offered 21 additional Air Force transport planes today for support of UN operations against secessionist Katanga forces in the Congo.

Congo. The U.S. Air Force was cooperating with the United Nations by giving transport assistance, but Britain was declaring the the U.N. forces have no right to impose a political solution by force.

In any case, it was evident that the U.N. command, reinforced with jets from Sweden, India and other nations, was able to make itself felt in the air this time as it was unable to do in September. At that time one or two Katanga jets succeeded in coming some of the U.N. ground forces.

The U.N. command said that two Indian Canberras attacked the Kolwezi base and left four Katanga planes in ruins, including a Fouga jet fighter.

A fuel depot and the tower at the strategic base were damaged, an announcement issued at Leopoldville said.

The U.N. spokesman said a two-engine Dornier of the Katanga Air Force was sighted, but ducked away before the U. N. planes could get to it.

Indian Brig. K. A. S. Raja, commanding U.N. operations, reported earlier that Swedish jet fighters attacked the Kolwezi base, northwest of Elisabethville.

First Court Test Of Industrial Act

PARIS, Mo. (AP)—Monroe City today set up the first court test on the constitutionality of Missouri's new Industrial Development Act.

The city petitioned Circuit Judge Elgin T. Fuller to declare valid $150,000 in general obligation and revenue bonds approved by Monroe City voters to finance industrial development.

New Facilities Speed Mail

Postal Service Expanded To Handle Christmas Rush

Postal employees are out to help beleaguered patrons with their Christmas mailing, according to Postmaster Maurice Hogan who today announced a schedule of extended window service hours for the holiday rush period.

The expanded schedule gets underway Sunday, Hogan stated, with windows to be open at the post office and five sub-stations throughout the Sedalia area from 2 to 4 p.m.

Monday, Dec. 11, through Friday, Dec. 22, windows will be open as usual from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. plus added evening hours from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Saturday, Dec. 16, an expanded 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule will be followed while Sunday, Dec. 17, the windows will open from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Normal service resumes Saturday, Dec. 23, with windows open from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Hogan pointed out postal sub-stations are located throughout the city at the following addresses: 413 South Engineer, 404 South Ohio, 219 South Ohio, 304 West 16th and 927 South Limit.

In line with a new nationwide Post Office plan, Hogan said it is hoped postal deliveries in the city will be limited to once a day during the Christmas rush. In the past, Christmas mail was delivered twice a day during the peak periods of volume.

Manned Space Flight Set For January

First Earth Circling Try Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first U.S. attempt to send a man into orbit was scheduled today for early January.

The postponement until after the Christmas holidays was announced by the space agency which already has assigned astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. for the attempt to orbit a Mercury capsule.

Previously the hope had been to make the manned shot this year, perhaps as early as Dec. 20.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the next Mercury orbital launch definitely will be a manned flight, ruling out any more tests with animals.

Space officials had worked hard to try to get the U.S. orbital shot off during 1961 in order to achieve that goal in the same year as the Soviet Union.

The announcement said that, based upon all available data including a preliminary analysis of the recent orbital flight of the chimpanzee Enos, "it appears no further animal or unmanned flights are needed before attempting the specific Mercury mission—manned orbital flight."

The agency added: "Analysis of the Mercury-Atlas chimpanzee flight performance and postflight physical condition of Enos, together with detailed study of the spacecraft, booster and tracking network operation, confirms that the Mercury-Atlas system is ready for manned orbital flight."

County Fire Truck, Car In Collision

One person suffered minor injuries in a collision between the Pettis County Fire truck, enroute to a fire at 32nd and Grand, and a 1957 Ford car at the intersection of Broadway and Limit. The accident occurred about 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Miss Patricia Ann Anderson, 16, of 525 East Fourth, a passenger in the car driven by Milton D. Cunningham, 17, Route 5, Sedalia, suffered an abrasion of the left leg and was in shock. The girl was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Gillespie ambulance where Dr. Tom Hopkins rendered medical treatment.

County Fire Chief Ralph F. Milburn, driving the Dodge truck, said they were answering a call to 32nd and Grand where a car was on fire. He said they were traveling about 25 miles per hour as they entered the intersection, with the red lights flashing and the siren sounding. He said the car coming from the west seemed to pull out and come to a dead stop just in front of them.

Cunningham said he was driving east on Broadway and didn't see or hear the fire truck until "it was on us."

When the vehicles collided, the Ford car spun around and headed back southwest and struck the slight embankment at the southwest corner of the highway in front of the Standard Service Station. The front left portion of the car was extensively damaged.

The fire call was for a 1955 Ford sedan of Paul W. Buso who gave his address as the Royal Hotel. Buso and some companions had extinguished the fire by

For Reorganization

State Board Rejects Pettis County Plan

A plan that would have affected four major school districts in Pettis County was disapproved by the Missouri State Board of Education in a meeting Monday, but plans for the eventual reorganization of two of the districts have not been abandoned.

The plan, which would have authorized the reorganization of the Houstonia and Hughesville districts into one district, and the merging of the Pettis County R-VII and the Green Ridge districts, was approved by the Pettis County Board of Education and submitted to the state, Nov. 20.

On Nov. 24, the Henry County Board of Education submitted a plan for that county, which included the merging of the Pettis County R-VII District with the Windsor District into a new district to be called the Henry County RI District.

This provided the state board with two plans to consider, both plans containing provisions to include the Pettis County R-VII District. At the Monday meeting the state board disapproved the

Will Play Concerto For Its First Time

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) —The first known presentation of a piano concerto written in 1778 by Michael Haydn, brother of famed composer, Josef Haydn, will be performed Dec. 15, at the dedication of Southeast Missouri State College's new music building.

Soulima Stravinsky, son of Igor Stravinsky, will play the 18th century concerto.

T. Donley Thomas, assistant professor of music at Southeast, began reconstructing the work, which was known only in fragments until 1955-57, while on a Fulbright scholarship in Austria. He said there is no record to indicate the concerto ever has been performed anywhere in the world.

Name Directors At Oil Meeting

Ten new directors were named to the advisory board at the MFA Oil Company's annual bulk plant meeting attended by some 125 persons Monday night at Washington School.

Elected to the board were: Charles Blumm, Norman Gibson, Joe Westermier, Harry Runge, Leo Hoehns, C. J. Wilken, C. H. Williams, Robert Rissler, Ralph Thomas and C. G. Schlobohm. Chairman of the meeting was Leo Hoehns, Smithton.

Sales for the entire company increased more than $1,500,000 over last year, it was reported. There are now 87 MFA bulk oil plants in Missouri with 125 tank trucks delivering to farmers. Walter Straight, district sales manager, said this was the 32nd consecutive year since the founding of the company in 1929 that there was an increase in volume.

Leo Botcher, John Nace and Larry Callas furnished entertainment.

Legion Members Now Total 370

American Legion, Post 16, met Monday night at the Legion Hall, at which time it was brought out that the Legion membership is now 370, and recognition had been given Frank Piper, chairman, by his appointment to the National Membership and Post Activities Committee. The Legion, also, has on hand $21,000 for its new building which they plan to build as soon as the title to the land on East 16th has been cleared by the city.

Henry Niemann, commander, presided over the meeting.

A vote to thanks was given to the DeMolay boys who did such a fine job cleaning up the dough boy in front of the court house.

Cole Camp Jaycee Charter Appears Nigh

Possibilities of organizing a Junior Chamber of Commerce chapter at Cole Camp are bright, according to Sedalia Jaycee president Allen Hawkins.

A delegation of local Jaycees headed by Hawkins and Rick Fullerton, extension chairman, met Tuesday night at the Cole Camp high school with approximately 12 young Cole Camp men. Another meeting is scheduled Tuesday night, Dec. 12, in hopes of making application for Cole Camp's charter, it was reported. The Cole Camp group has selected two officers to head the organizational project.

The extension project at Cole Camp has been brewing since Nov. 26, Jaycees reported, when R. E. Harris Jr. and Larry Trautgott of Cole Camp met with Sedalia Jaycees at the organization's state headquarters building here Tuesday night's session was the third meeting with the Cole Camp group.

The meeting was presided over by Joe Forsee, president, with Lee Deason giving the invocation. Gerald Cecil led the singing and Miss Lillian Fox was accompanist.

Irwin Raut, a guest of Gerald Cecil, was introduced and talked on the book, "The Life of Christ" by Edwin F. Cary, which is being sold, with the money from the sale to be put into more books which will be given away to children.

Local Men Attend Columbia MFA Meet

Representing the Sedalia MFA Exchange at the annual meeting of the MFA Central Cooperative in Columbia were Harry Runge, Carl Wilken, Leo Hoehns and Norman Gibson.

The Central Cooperative is composed of 76 local farmer exchanges that are consolidated under one management. The entire Missouri Farmers Association has more than 250 exchanges.

Otto Schulte, general manager of the Central Cooperative, reported that the company did a volume of $44 million last year and that savings to patrons amounted to approximately $600,000.

the new system the same amount of mail can be delivered with fewer stops. "We'll save substantial amounts of money without curtailing service," the department's edict stated.

The plan, adopted in keeping with President Kennedy's call for government economy, was tried on an experimental basis in some areas last year, a postal spokesman said, and saved about 12 per cent of delivery costs.

Hogan indicated the program to cut expenses would probably influence the number of temporary substitute mail carriers hired by the Sedalia post office during the rush. Hogan stated a number of temporary mailmen go on duty Dec. 12, but said the number to be used was not yet known.

"Dec. 10 to 20 is the peak volume period here," Hogan said.

Postal officials have urged patrons to mail all Christmas packages and cards to be delivered in the United States by Dec. 10 to guarantee delivery. The deadline for overseas mailing, Nov. 20, has already passed, however, airmail deliveries overseas should reach their destination if mailed by Dec. 10.

ruled in the November meeting, and the plan was submitted.

Notices were posted about Dec. 1 in the R-VII District, before the state board election Dec. 20. If this issue is approved by the patrons of the district, the new building may be constructed, regardless of what action the state board takes on the merger plan submitted Wednesday.

If the state approves the latest Pettis County plan, the county board may call an election within the Green Ridge and R-VII Districts on the merger. In any case, even with state approval, the merger or reorganization of school districts cannot be accomplished without approval of the voters within the districts.

The issue seems to be where, if anywhere other than in their own district, the R-VI pupils will attend school. The area lies in the southwest portion of Pettis County, with Green Ridge on one side and Windsor, in Henry County, on the other side. There are three schools in the district in operation—Hopedale, Elm Branch and Maple Grove. All are elementary schools.

High school students from R-VII go to either Green Ridge or Windsor High Schools. Both Green Ridge and Windsor authorities have expressed their desire to have the R-VII area in their school districts.

scooping up sand, gravel and dirt and throwing it on the flames, before the fire company arrived. A check was made and the fire was apparently out.

At 1:45 o'clock a man walked into the police station and reported he thought there was an automobile on fire on the gravel road (Grand Avenue) just south of 32nd Street. The County fire truck was dispatched to the scene and on arrival, firemen found the car interior a mass of flames and the fire had gutted the entire inside of the vehicle, blistered the paint on the body, burned out all windows.

County Fire Chief Ralph Milburn, marked the fire up as a "complete loss." Cause of the fire was undetermined, but possibly started from a short in the wiring.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My wife devotes 100 per cent of her energy and time to our two teenage daughters. She's so busy sewing for them that when I need a button on a shirt she hands me a needle and says "Sew it on yourself."

The girls rule our lives. My wife cooks what THEY like, we drive the kind of car THEY want, and we vacation at the places THEY select. I'm well aware that the male hasn't been the head of the house in America for quite some time, but at least in some families they pretend that he has a little authority.

One woman bossing me around I could take — but not three. Perhaps, I'd be happier alone — especially now that the muling, drooling teenage boys are beginning to hang around. What do you think? — TURNING WORM

Dear Worm: I think you tipped your mitt in that line about the teenage boys.

You are insecure and emotionally immature. A well-adjusted husband doesn't compete with his children for their mother's attention as you have been doing for years. And now you're jealous

Revolt Oddly Anemic Work On the Stage

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Critic
NEW YORK (AP)—The bloody Hungarian revolt against Communist dictatorship in 1956 becomes oddly anemic drama in "Shadow of Heroes."

Earnest purpose and intense research are evident all over the production that opened Tuesday night at the York Theater. But the acting and content are as untidy as the clutter of packing boxes which represent the streets and homes of Budapest.

Robert Ardrey, an author whose previous works include the notable "Thunder Rock," spent considerable time near the Iron Curtain frontier assembling his true-life drama.

The principal characters include Janos Kadar, now Hungary's premier; Laslo Rajk, underground Red leader during World War II; his wife; and sundry associates under the Marxist banner.

The playwright's theme is that the disillusioned widow Rajk (still reportedly alive somewhere in Moscow's realm) triggered the uprising of five years ago when she denounced Kadar and other members of the Central Committee for having previously executed her husband.

In order to crowd all the background he wants into the script, Ardrey uses an on-stage character (played with heavy accent by Muni Seroff) to lecture instead of dramatize. The effect, in conjunction with Warner Le Roy's flat direction, is desultory.

Principal roles are performed by George Gaynes, Salome Jens, Sam Gray, Bernard Grant and Rudolf Weiss. Gaynes is balefully malevolent as a ruthless party hatchetman. The others will probably do better next time.

The lumber-littered setting is by Kim E. Swados.

"Shadow of Heroes" was previously done in London, with Evelyn Williams and Dame Peggy Ashcroft on parade. The box office success was scanty, and there isn't much likelihood things are going to get better now.

Science at Work

Lens on US Orbit Flight, Stout Chimps, Space Diet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The push to orbit a U.S. astronaut before the end of the year, some curious facts about space-going chimpanzees, and saving calories in weightlessness are subjects for science at work:

Next:

U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., at 40 the oldest of the seven American space candidates, may be the first to orbit the earth.

He is now lodged in the astronaut ready room at Cape Canaveral, Fla., waiting for his chance which may come before New Year's Day.

Glenn's quarters in Hangar S on the sprawling missile base are only a few steps away from the area where space-going chimpanzees Enos and Ham were prepared for their space flights. Newer, more complete astronaut quarters are being planned for the cape.

Enos and Brethren

Chimpanzees, like Enos and Ham, are mightier than men in many ways.

The men who handle the space chimpanzees say that these apes are 4½ times as strong as men of similar weight. Chimpanzees have been found which stand up to 5½ feet tall, and have an arm spread of 6 feet.

Although the average life span of chimpanzees is usually in the thirties, some have been known to live 45 years. Most of the space chimpanzees are young—5 to 6 years old, and small—about 40 pounds.

Space Diet

An astronaut—gliding in weightlessness through space—will probably need no more than some 2,400 calories a day in meals, a scientist suggests.

At work, the space pilot's efforts that on earth would cost some 216 calories per hour working against gravity, would cost only 144 calories an hour in weightlessness.

Under the normal gravity on earth, a space pilot resting, but awake, would use 94 calories an hour, but would use only 85 calories an hour resting and awake without gravity to contend with.

Sleeping, on earth or in space, the cost in calories is about the same—some 65 calories an hour, said Dr. Carsbie C. Adams, president of the National Research and Development Corp.

Hot Stuff in Space

A spacecraft—venturing toward the moon—will be speeding through showers of cosmic rays or huge bands of radiation. But much of the radiation danger to the space pilot may come from the thin walls of his spacecraft where some of the radiation is trapped.

Bendix Corp. scientists, calculating radiation danger, say that some of the high energy particles speeding through space will strike the spacecraft's hull and transfer some of their energy to atoms in the hull.

These atoms then become excit-

Monroney Hits At Resentment

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., expressed resentment Tuesday at what he called "crude and rude treatment" given Interior Secretary Stewart Udall during a Kansas survey for a national park site.

Monroney, in a letter to Udall, also put in a pitch for the secretary to look at Oklahoma for a national park site located in the central United States.

"Hospitable Oklahoma respectfully invites you and the national park officials to make such a survey in Oklahoma, where we have many spots of great natural beauty well adapted to national park usage," said Monroney.

Specifically mentioned by the Senator was Platt National Park near Sulphur. He said it would be "an ideal site to be properly enlarged."

"If Kansas will not welcome you, we will in Oklahoma and would appreciate, rather than resent, the consideration of the national park officials," Monroney said.

Runaway Horses Cause Roundup By Authorities

ROSELLE, Ill. (AP)—An alarmed housewife telephoned Cook County sheriff's police, saying: "There's a horse looking at me through my front porch window."

A second phone call, from a horse trainer near Roselle, informed police that two brown mares had just run away from a farm.

Two shaken motorists told of being forced off the road by two brown horses galloping toward their autos.

Deputies spotted the fugitives in a field and roped them.

Capt. James Pridoux said there was only one casualty, a deputy. "A horse stepped on his foot."

ed and emit lower grade radiation over a longer period of time. This sort of hazard could be greater than if the high energy particle had passed right through the body of the space pilot at full strength.

Tenants Must Sign

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Tampa housing authority has tied the can to tenants who refuse to sign a non-Communist oath.

Authority director Thomas Dyer said his agency is requiring heads of family to sign an oath that they are not members of the Communist party. If they don't, said Dyer, out they go. Or if they are applicants for future housing, they don't get in.

S-C Tigers Into Semi-finals After Taking Pintos 53-40

Smith-Cotton's Tigers roared into the semi-finals of the 23rd annual Tipton High School Invitational Basketball Tournament Tuesday night when they defeated California's Pintos 53-40.

Mules Open Home Season Against SIU

The Central Missouri State Mules open their home court season at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night, Dec. 8, in Garrison Gymnasium against Southern Illinois University and meet Emporia State here the following night. This pair of games mark coach Gene Bartow's debut before the Central Missouri State fans.

The Illinois Salukis will be led by lone returnee Charlie Vaughn, a 6-2 senior guard who was a 1960-61 first team selection on the United Press International Little All-American squad. Vaughn is the nation's all-time high school champion who racked up a total of 3,378 points while playing the Tamm high school. The Illinois team ranked fourth in the Associated Press' small college ratings last year.

After the Mules had defeated Ottawa University 83-57 in the season opener last week while on a Kansas trip, the Warrensburg team lost to Emporia State in a close 74-76 game. The Hornets hit at 55 per cent to win although the Mules had them bested 44-26 on rebounds. The Mules hope to even things up with Emporia Saturday night.

Bud Vallino, 6-foot-4, 215 pound sophomore from Edwardsville, is presently leading the scoring for the Mules with Bob Dennis, 6-foot-5, 190 pounds senior from Kansas City, running close behind.

The Tigers were in control all the way, even though at times their lead dwindled to dangerous depth. California, playing good ball, was rather ineffective during the game, and actually lost it in the last minutes of play when the Tigers began to find the range.

The Tigers, having the height on the Pintos, dominated the backboards both in offensive and defensive play. The game completed the first round of play in the tournament.

In other action Tuesday, the Versailles Tigers whipped New Bloomfield's Wildcats 64-47 on the merits of a tough zone defense. A 20-point contribution from Richard Bolton, and 16 points from Cable Kent made up for almost half of the Versailles score. High for New Bloomfield was Charles Nagel with 14 markers.

The Tiger's defensive action held one of New Bloomfield's star performers, Bruce Wilson, down to three points.

Terry Fletcher, Art Wiggins and John Bucholtz were the spark of the Tigers under the backboards, snagging in stray balls at every opportunity. Fletcher alone contributed 16 points to the Tiger effort, while Wiggins dropped in nine and Bucholtz two. High for California was Latham with 12.

Tuesday's game opened the regular season of play for the Tigers who play against the Versailles Tigers in the semi-finals.

In tonight's action, Eldon meets Lincoln at 7:30 p.m., and Jefferson City's Jays go against Tipton at 9 p.m.

Austin Beats La Rose In Main Event

Guy La Rosa fell victim of a knockout in a collision with Buddy Austin bouncing off the ropes in the matches, Tuesday night, and couldn't return to wrestle it out with Buddy Austin for the third fall of their event. Austin was awarded the third fall and the match.

But the big thing of the evening was the return to the Sedalia ring after more than a six months lay-off by Lee "Bulldog" Henning. Henning who underwent an operation several months ago, appeared to be in the "pink" and ready to resume his role of wrestling again. He was teamed up with Stan Stasiak in a match against two newcomers, Karl Von Schober and Corica Joe.

The Henning-Stasiak combination made it two-in-a-row over their opponents and much to the pleasure of the local ringeriders, Henning took on the German and beat him with a series of body slams and a press after 12 minutes and 37 seconds of wrestling. Stasiak took the second over Corica Joe after Hennings had used a knee back breaker on the Canadian and Stasiak finished it with a repeat. It took 15 minutes and 15 seconds for the second fall.

In the La Rosa and Austin event, LaRosa won the first fall in 23 minutes and 29 seconds using a series of body slams and press. Austin won the second in six minutes and 19 seconds after using his famed pile driver and press. The third fall ended after one minute and 12 seconds when the two giants collided and La Rosa got the worst of it.

The one-fall semi-final event between Thor Hagen and Duke Hoffman, was won by Hagen when he applied the reverse leg lock and pressed Hoffman into submission after 10 minutes and 56 seconds.

A feature event brought Stasiak and Von Schober together in a one-fall, 15-minute time limit match. The two giants went the full time to a draw.

The next wrestling matches are scheduled for Tuesday night, Dec. 12, at Convention Hall, Liberty.

Houstonia Edges Past Hughesville

Houstonia's Shamrocks squeezed past the Hughesville Wildcats, scoring four points in approximately 30 seconds of the last quarter to win 45-41. The game was played at Houstonia, Tuesday night, a non-conference tilt.

According to Siebert McDaniel, Hughesville coach, Tommy Reed and Tommy Hedgpeth were credited with two points each. Reed on a basket and Hedgpeth on two free throws which paid off.

Topping the 'Cats in scoring was R. D. Gray, 6'3" senior center, who netted 11. Allen Sevier was on top for Houstonia, hitting the loop for 20 big points.

The scoring moved along rather evenly in the first quarter, but Houstonia went ahead in the second taking a seven point lead.

In a seventh and eighth grade game, Hughesville defeated Houstonia 36-14.

Gary Brownfield was high for Hughesville with ten and Boulevard was tops for Houstonia with six.

Gremlins Take Hard-fought Game Tuesday at Marshall

The Sacred Heart Gremlins took a very hard-fought game, Tuesday night, at Marshall. The final score was 59-47.

"Big John" Herring is back and is now ready to play top ball.

Jim Friedebach led the S-H scoring with 27 points, 11 field goals and five free throws. Butler led the rebound for S-H with 18. Larry Clouse topped Marshall with 11 field goals and four free throws for a total of 26 points.

After a close and hard fought

'Birds Meet Tuesday At Concordia

It was a meeting of the "Birds" Tuesday night, as the St. Paul's Bluejays soundly trounced the Concordia Orioles in a non-conference game at Concordia.

Steve Meyer, 6'2" senior forward, scored 18 big points for the 'Jays and Curt Beerman, 5'10" sophomore guard, netted ten for Concordia.

The scoring started at a good pace, the 'Jays leading by only one point at the end of the first quarter. At the half they had picked up four more and led by five.

St. Paul's plays Kemper Military Academy at Concordia, Dec. 11, in a non-conference game.

In the "B" game the Bluejays again squeezed past the Orioles with seven points winning 33-26.

Randy Shields netted 12 to lead the scoring for St. Paul's, and Schnakenberg led the Orioles with eight.

Score by quarters:
St. Paul's 12 12 10 15-49
Concordia 12 6 11 7-36

Individual scoring: St. Paul's — Wohlschlag, 3; Grunum, 2; Piroshaber, 9; Mack, 9; Blenke, 9; Concordia — Kirchoff, 5; Hulver, 2; Flandermeyer, 9; Stumpenhaut, 6; Brockman, 4.

Feathers Fly In Otterville, Nelson Game

The feathers flew Tuesday night when Otterville's Eagles tangled with the Nelson Eagles in a CCAA conference basketball game at Otterville. It was a game which saw erratic scoring, but Otterville came out on top, 54-31, after going into the game with a rousing 21-point first quarter performance.

Otterville's two forwards, Bob Bentzin and John Watring, both standing at 5-foot-3, dumped in 12 points each to lead the winning attack. Inskip, with 16 points for Nelson, captured scoring honors for the evening.

It was Otterville's fourth conference win of the season, compared to five losses. They stand 2-2 for the regular season. Friday they travel to Lincoln where they meet the Cardinals in a non-conference game.

Otterville's girls, in another basketball contest, dropped Nelson 34-23 on the 13-point performance of Betty Ward. Martin was high for Nelson with 11.

Score by quarters:
Otterville 22 9 12 12-54
Nelson 2 10 11 8-31

Individual scoring: Otterville — Kenny Moon, 8; Bob Bentzin, 12; Cecil Cook, 9; Larry Huffman, 8; John Watring, 12; Johnny Potter, 4; Gary Potter, 5; Nelson — Davis, 4; Harvey, 2; Inskip, 16; Root, 2; Nicholson, 3; Huston, 2; Dial, 2.

At Football Awards Dinner

JFK Dodges National Pastime Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — President John F. Kennedy, a former Harvard varsity player and the nation's No. 1 touch football fan, wants no part of the current controversy over whether baseball or football now is the national pastime.

But, grinning, he advises Notre Dame not to give back its controversial 17-15 victory over Syracuse last month.

Referring to a close victory of his own in 1960, he said he had no intention of giving that back.

The President was the featured speaker Tuesday night at the annual awards dinner of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. He was the recipient of the foundation's Gold Medal Award, given for the example he has set in recognizing the major role of amateur athletics in fostering moral values and leadership.

He shared the head table with eight former players and one of two former coaches who were inducted into the Hall of Fame and eight others honored as scholar athletes.

Referring to the baseball-football controversy, he said:

"The sad fact is that it looks more and more as if our great national sport is not playing at all—but watching. We have become more and more not a nation of athletes, but a nation of spectators. The result of this shift from participation to—if I may coin a word—spectation is all too visible in the physical condition of our population."

Kennedy called the American people physically soft as a result of push button living.

"We are under-exercised as a nation," he said. "We look instead of play, ride instead of walk. Our push-button existence deprives us of the minimum of physical activity essential for healthy living."

He called for a long serious look at the nation's physical condition, and for a change in the way millions of Americans live.

"The remedy, in my judgment, lies in one direction—in developing programs for broad participation in exercise by all our young men and women," he said.

"In short, what we must do is literally change the physical habits of millions of Americans—and that is far more difficult than changing their tastes, their fashions or even their politics."

And, on the subject of politics, he noted that some Republicans have been persistent in mentioning that he won the presidency by a small margin last year. He related that to the Notre Dame-Syracuse football game, which Notre Dame won on a "second chance" field goal after time had expired. The NCAA rules committee chairman, Bob Neyland, has ruled the second chance kick was illegal—that the roughing the ball holder penalty called on a Syracuse player as time expired should not have extended the game.

Kennedy took time out from his dinner to visit a group of Alabama

Paul (Bear) Bryant, Alabama coach, and quarterback Pat Trammell accepted the MacArthur Bowl at the dinner on behalf of the Crimson Tide, selected by the foundation as the nation's top team.

Bryant called his team — also selected by The Associated Press as the best in the country — "the best I've been associated with in all my career."

Former players inducted into the Hall of Fame were halfback Glenn Davis of Army (1944-46); Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, North Carolina halfback (1946-49); George McAfee, Duke halfback (1937-39); Bob Reynolds, Stanford tackle (1933-35); Bob Suffridge, Tennessee guard (1938-40); Weldon Humble, Rice guard (1941-42, 1946); Pat Pazzetti, Lehigh and Wesleyan quarterback (1908-1912) and Claude Reeds, Oklahoma halfback (1910-13).

County NFO Members To Convention

A top-talent speaking program, headed by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, will be one of the many highlights during the annual convention of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) in Des Moines, Ia., Thursday and Friday.

NFO officials said this week that more than 3,500 delegates are expected to attend the two-day session in the Veterans Memorial Auditorium, to make this the largest convention in NFO history.

Jack Curran, Pettis County chairman, said this week that a full slate of delegates will be attending from Pettis County. They include: John Curry, A. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schanz, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Verts, Albert Anderson, Robert Taylor, William Albers, Jim Fowler, C. H. Lowrey and J. R. Chamberlin.

Secretary Freeman will address the banquet crowd Friday evening, Dec. 8. Michael De Angelis, noted east coast exporter, also will appear on the platform the same evening.

Speakers Thursday evening will include Charles W. McInnis, president, Farmers' Allied Meat Enterprises Co-operative, Ltd., of Toronto, Ontario, and another nationally known speaker.

Coming back for an encore from last year's convention will be Vince Rossiter, Hartington, Neb., bank president; and John T. Schlebecker, associate professor of history, Iowa State University, Ames, Ia.

The size and scope of this year's convention will reflect the growth and progress of the NFO during the past year, commented President Oren Lee Staley.

The convention opens with registration Thursday at 8 a.m., followed by call to order at 10 a.m. by President Oren Lee Staley.

Various reports will be given Thursday morning followed by the president's "State of Affairs of the Organization" Thursday afternoon. Both evening banquets will be in the Veterans Auditorium, and tickets may be secured at the registration desk. There will be no advance sales on banquet tickets.

Election of officers will be held Friday afternoon.

In looking forward to this year's convention, President Staley commented, "We feel that the NFO

Altrusa Club Holds Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party of the Altrusa Club of Sedalia was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. Roland Stansbury, Thompson Hills, with Mrs. George Chambers co-hostess.

Guests were greeted by an electric Santa Claus and presents for the gift exchange were placed under the lighted Christmas tree.

The following guests were welcomed by the club president, Mrs. Pete Siegel: Mrs. Mary Zoernig, Mrs. Gus Williams, Mrs. Mary Grace Mathews, Mrs. Carrie Stansbury, Miss Jennifer Watson, Miss Betsy Siegel and Miss Audrey Siegel.

Members placed toys in a gaily wrapped box which was turned over to Mrs. Roseanne Johns to be distributed through the Welfare Office.

During the short program Miss Jane Younger read the story "Let's Keep Christmas" by Peter Marshall and Miss Opal O'Brian showed a color film entitled "The Story of Our Christmas Carols" accompanied by a record with the most beloved carols.

Members and guests participated in a silent auction and a gratifying amount was received to be used in some of the many civic projects of Altrusa.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be the noon luncheon at the Bothwell Hotel Monday, Dec. 18.

At 100 Farmer Has No Personal Doctor

BOWMANVILLE, Pa. — (AP) — Henry G. Musser, a retired farmer, celebrated his 100th birthday Tuesday and like all others in the state who turn 100, received a congratulatory plaque from the Pennsylvania Medical Society.

It was presented by Dr. Robert R. Bender, a local physician, who said: "When I was asked by the society to make the presentation I thought it should be made by his own physician. But I found to my surprise that despite his advanced age he didn't have one."

"I don't need a doctor," Musser commented. "I keep active. That does it."

has been most fortunate in being able to schedule such an outstanding array of speakers. Each and every one is top in his field. This, coupled with a record number of delegates attending, will make it the most outstanding convention in NFO history."

Goldwater's Words Wipe Doubt Concerning Stand on Any Issue

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "The big thing we have to do is to permit the individual to spend more of his own money."

"I am a Republican opposed to the super-state and to gigantic, bureaucratic, centralized authority."

"Walter Reuther is more dangerous than the Sputniks or anything Russia might do."

"Except for Harry Truman, who wasn't very good at it, none of our presidents in recent years was a man who ever had to meet a payroll."

"Our problem in the Republican party is that we haven't offered enough conservative candidates. How many elections do we have to lose before we learn that lesson?"

How many guesses do you need to tell who's speaking?

Barry M. Goldwater is the junior senator for Arizona and the senior field general for the cause of conservatism. From his philosophical base, he has spoken out on virtually every great issue confronting the United States. He seldom leaves any doubt as to where he stands.

He worries and dismays some Americans. To others, he is the best hope for preserving the republic. Few students of the national scene are indifferent to Goldwater.

Thus, politically, he has come to resemble a crag in Arizona's Painted Desert, big, dramatic, boldly etched against the sky.

How big?

The answer to that may well be wrapped inside an even more fascinating question—

Is a trend toward conservatism building up in the United States? What is the significance of the clubs and publications reflecting conservative thought that flowered in recent years on the college campus? Why is Goldwater in such a great demand by student groups as a speaker? Nearly 30 years after the coming of the New Deal, is the social and economic thinking of a sizeable body of Americans turning in the other direction?

Goldwater thinks so.

"It's much larger than anyone imagines," he says, "possibly a majority of the people in this country."

Few, if any, professional politicians agree.

Nevertheless, Goldwater is consistently bracketed with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as one of the leading possibilities for the GOP nomination for president in 1964.

He discounts the possibility. "I expect to run for the Senate again," he says. "I like the Senate."

Meanwhile, as the teen-agers say, Goldwater has become "the most" in a number of categories.

He is the most written-about man in Congress.

He made 400 speeches last year. By his own count, he appeared before 112 college groups in two years. His secretary, Edna A. Coerver, says he had to refuse more than 200 invitations in November alone. His speaking schedule already is filled through next July.

His words and deeds regularly fill columns in newspapers and magazines. One biography of Goldwater has just come out. Two more are due for publication soon.

He is the most unorthodox of the presidential possibilities.

When Congress adjourned, instead of using the time to make political hay, he took a slow boat to Europe with his wife and dropped out of the news for weeks. Those who would like to see him become the GOP candidate for president must have shuddered when he said, "Sometimes I think this country would be better off if we could just saw off the Eastern seaboard and let it float out to sea."

He is the most unabashed commentator on policies and people in his own party.

On April 8, 1957, he rose in the Senate to blast President Eisenhower's proposed budget. He said he was shocked and added, "It weakens my faith in the constant assurances we have received from this administration that its aim was to cut spending, balance the budget, reduce debt, cut taxes—in short, live within our means."

Last year, he called the Nixon-Rockefeller agreement, before the GOP National Convention, a "Munich." He said Nixon disappointed him.

This year, the Chicago Tribune quoted Goldwater as saying,

"Rockefeller would be hard to sell to the Middle West, the West and the South. I would be hard to sell to the Eastern seaboard. Nixon would be hard to sell anywhere."

Let's get a closeup of the man causing all this commotion.

Goldwater has a number of glib, edge political assets—looks, an engaging personality, a wide-ranging mind, high energy, an attractive family, a good war record, popularity with his colleagues in the Senate.

He is six feet tall, holds his weight at 185. Habitual tan accentuates his silvery hair. He broke his nose playing football. He has a firm chin, steady blue eyes.

He plays golf, swims, rides and hunts. He was a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force during World War II, and is a reserve brigadier general now. He flies jets, and made "eight or nine landings" in the giant B52 bomber "but I wouldn't say I'm actually checked out for that ship."

He shot the dangerous white water rapids of the Colorado River six times.

He is a camera fan and has a well-equipped dark room in his luxurious hilltop home outside Phoenix. Goldwater delves into archaeology, studying Indian lore. Scores of Indian "kachina" dolls that he collected line one wall of the family-owned department store in Phoenix.

But gadgets, especially electronic gadgets, are his great passion. "As a kid," says a lifelong friend, "he was the first person in Phoenix to have a radio in his car—installed it himself." He wired his home and his apartment in Washington with hi-fi, alarms, and two-way radio systems. Frequently, while flying, he will radio home and say, "I'm coming in. Like to have lunch in about 20 minutes."

THE PRINTED WORD—Newspapers are here to stay. Not that anyone doubted it, but a recent survey shows that newspapers reach every segment of the American public and are an important part of most of our lives. Highlights of the survey, supervised by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, are shown in the chart above. The survey covered 4,826 interviews with persons 15 years and up in 622 different places. Other figures: 72 per cent of the country's teen-agers (15 to 20) read a newspaper on any given day; for adults, it is 88 per cent. Interestingly, 49 per cent of those interviewed said they would "feel quite lost" without a newspaper; only 28 per cent felt that way about television. Heaviest readership is among the better-educated, higher-income class of people.

In a Painting by Matisse Art Lover Detects Oddity

NEW YORK (AP)—Genevieve Habert, a French-born art lover, has caught the Museum of Modern Art in an artistic faux pas.

For 47 days the museum had been hanging a Henri Matisse picture upside down. Museum experts admitted their mistake Monday and turned the picture right side up.

The picture in question is a simple cut-and-asted gouache of a sailboat and its reflection. Consequently, it looks pretty much the same one side up or the other.

So it apparently did to all but one of the 116,000 persons who have visited the museum since the Matisse exhibition opened in October, including the late French master's son, New York art dealer Pierre Matisse.

Mrs. Habert, a Wall Street stock broker, visited the exhibit and looked at the picture. She considered it from all angles. "It just didn't look right," she says. "Either you feel a picture or you don't. I have studied Matisse avidly, and this picture seemed to be off balance. It just didn't match my idea of Matisse's catching the movement."

"I kept coming back to the museum to look at the picture. I even brought my two children and let them look at it. Something there bothered me."

Sunday, Mrs. Habert suddenly realized what was bothering her. To back up her certainty the picture was upside down, she bought a catalogue and found a reproduction of it. There it was—right side up.

But when she pointed out the mistake to a museum guard, she says, he told her: "You don't know what's up and you don't know what's down, and neither do we."

This got the former Parisienne's French ire up. Mrs. Habert says she went from one museum employe to the next without any success and finally got to the information desk. There, a girl said she also had a feeling the picture was upside down.

Monday the matter was brought to the attention of Monroe Wheeler, er, director of exhibitions, who had selected the 40 gouaches shown at the museum.

(A gouache is a painting with opaque colors which have been ground in water and mingled with a preparation of gum.)

Wheeler went to the picture, looked at it and gasped: "Oh, no."

Less than two hours later, the mistake was corrected.

Mrs. Habert said today she was delighted that her efforts had not been in vain.

"I'm sure I'm not the only one who sensed something wrong in the picture," she said. "But most people, when they come up against official inertia, are afraid of being laughed at."

"I'm not."

Cody's Nickname
William F. Cody acquired his nickname of "Buffalo Bill" as a result of his contract to supply buffalo meat in 1867 to the construction forces engaged in building the Kansas Pacific railroad. In a period of 18 months, Cody killed 4,280 buffaloes, probably an all-time record.

Roast Goose, Trimmings

English Christmas Dinner
Something to Rave About

By MOLLY STORCK

An English Christmas dinner! What could be more traditional than the roast goose, applesauce, mince pies and lambing pudding immortalized in Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

For good Christmas fare give me England. A perfectly cooked English Christmas dinner will be a complete surprise to critics of English food and a joy and delight for any who love Christmas with the family.

There are many regional specialties like the Scotch currant bun, a kind of rich plumcake 'bake' in pastry, and a Florentine, a special apple pie made for Christmas Day.

But the traditional Christmas dinner throughout England has holly and ivy and mistletoe decorations, a stuffed goose or turkey, long wreaths of sausages, individual mince pies, plum puddings, oysters, chestnuts roasting in the fireplace, juicy oranges and red-cheeked apples and great seething bowls of punch.

The traditional turkey is cooked much like ours and has the same variety of stuffings. But the roast goose is generally accompanied by an onion and sage stuffing and onion and sage sauce.

The English serve roast potatoes and a good safe vegetable, Brussels sprouts spruced up with some chestnuts, but the emphasis is decidedly not on the trimmings.

The Christmas cake eaten in England is a once-in-a-lifetime thing for most Americans. Basically, it is what we know as fruit cake, the dark kind. Instead of the loaf pan, the English use a round one.

The result is a handsome, solid-looking cake, reinforced within by raisins, cherries and sultanas. The outside is covered first with a thick blanket of marzipan paste, then heavily iced with a sweet pink and white icing and finally decorated with silver shot.

The crowning glory and flaming joy is the Christmas pudding. A rich dark pudding, the same as our plum pudding. The tradition of the blazing pudding is a very ancient one which we have happily carried over into our culture.

The pudding is served with any of a number of sauces, ranging from brandy butter, foaming sauce to a simple but delicious mixture of cream and rum with sugar.

Christmas dinner is eaten as mid-day meal—and everyone gorges until he is too full to move—and tea time is reserved as a special party for the children.

The table is laden with sweets, tarts, more little mince pies, cookies, jelly rolls and so on. Each child is given the popper that we usually reserve for birthday parties—the kind with fortunes, charms and gay paper hats inside.

A sure-fire hostess will remember to give a little bag of fruit, oranges and apples, and nuts to the children as they leave. Later on in the evening, a wassail or punch bowl winds up the day, and keeps up the traditions of Christmas.

If you'd like to try your hand at some of the old English dishes, here are a few recipes to help you out. A goose can be purchased on any of the economies, if the commissary is stocking only turkey—but the following recipe can be used for turkey although it is the traditional accompaniment for roast goose, duck or pork.

Sage and Onion Stuffing

2 large onions
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2 teaspoons dried sage
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Peel and cut up onions. Place in cold water, bring to boil and let cook about five minutes. Pour off this water, cover with fresh boiling water and cook until tender. Drain well and chop finely, then add the remaining ingredients and mix well.

A variation of 'plum pudding' is a strange combination in ice cream. Raisins, currants, almonds, candied orange peel and cherries are soaked in rum overnight, then beaten into chocolate ice cream (preferably homemade) and then refrozen. But for the good old-fashioned steamed plum pudding, here is a traditional sauce—far better than our tasteless Hard Sauce.

Foaming Sauce

1/2 cup sugar
1/4 pint water
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons rum or brandy
2 tablespoons cream, whipped

Put the sugar and water into a small pan, boil until it will form a thread between your forefinger and thumb. Pour it slowly on to the beaten egg yolks, and beat until very thick. Beat in the rum or brandy, and lastly, the whipped cream. Either pour around the pudding or serve separately. Chill before serving with hot plum pudding.

For the end of a perfect day, when the kids are in bed and you're picking at the bones of that poor old bird, treat yourself and anyone else who happens to be around to an old-fashioned wassail cup.

Wassail

1 quart good ale
1/2 pint sherry
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
a strip of lemon rind
brown sugar to taste
1/2 dozen crab apples
(or 3 small red apples)

Heat the ale with the sherry, spices and lemon rind, simmer five minutes. Meantime bake the apples 'til just soft with sugar and enough ale to taste well. Then add all to the spiced ale, adding more sugar if desired. Serve hissing hot in tankards or mugs.

God rest ye, merry gentlemen.

Eastern Star Installs
New Officers for 1962

Silver trimmed hearts of all dimensions, centered with bouquets of gardenias, provided the colorful setting in which the 1962 officers of Sedalia Chapter No. 57, Order of the Eastern Star were installed Saturday night, at the new Masonic Temple. All decorations emphasized the symbol and colors of the Worthy Grand Matron.

Preceding the installation, distinguished guests, relatives, members and friends were escorted into the chapter room. Serving as ushers were: Frank Coffman, Lynn Russell, Ralph Morgan, Cecil Bohon and Paul Dowdy.

The ceremonies opened with the entrance of the 1961 officers followed by the installing officers who took their respective stations in the East.

The Holy Bible was brought in by Mrs. Brookie Huffine, escorted by Mrs. Genevieve Maune, and Mrs. Lucille White, all past matrons of Sedalia Chapter No. 57, while Lee Peabody sang "My Bible." Mrs. Mary Harlan, conductress, attended the Bible, after which the Lord's Prayer was offered in unison. Allegiance to the flag was pledged and the entire assemblage sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

The worthy matron and worthy patron welcomed all members and guests. Distinguished guests introduced were: Mrs. Viola Coffman, past grand matron; Mrs. Drusilla Krockenberger, deputy grand matron, 36th District; Mrs. Glydis Simpson of Holden, grand representative to Scotland; Mrs. Ruth Marr of Warrensburg, grand representative to Arizona. The worthy matron then introduced the installing officers, who were: Mrs. Viola Coffman, installing grand matron; Lloyd Farris, installing grand patron; Mrs. Anne Brown, installing grand chaplain; Mrs. Mary Kennon, installing grand marshal; Mrs. Doris Stott, installing grand organist; Mrs. Drusilla Krockenberger, grand floral marshal, after which the 1961 officers retired to the West. The 1962 officers-elect were escorted to their seats by the installing grand marshal. A prayer was then offered by the installing grand chaplain.

Mrs. Mary Farris, worthy matron-elect, was presented for installation, after which Marjorie Cunningham rendered a vocal selection "White Gardenia," dedicated to the worthy matron.

H. Ray Anderson, worthy patron elect, was next presented for installation, after which Lee Peabody sang a parody, dedicated to the worthy patron, with appropriate words adapted to the tune of "Doggie In The Window."

Additional officers installed for the ensuing year were: Associate Matron, Mrs. Mary Harlan; Associate Patron, Rex Hutchings; Secretary, Mrs. Lila Burl Sammons; Treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Bendure; Conductress, Mrs. Dorothy Dowdy; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Ladine Evans; Chaplain, Mrs. Dorothy Owen; Marshall, Mrs. Lucille Anderson; Organist, Mrs. Mae Moser Pulliam; Adah, Mrs. Delpha Cavaness; Ruth, Mrs. Mary Jane Hayes; Esther, Mrs. Thelma Meyer; Martha, Mrs. Dorothy Vaughn; Electa, Mrs. Mary Spears; Warden, Mrs. Estalee Raines; Sentinel, Kenneth Cavaness.

The Star Point colors were presented by Mrs. Drusilla Krockenberger, district deputy grand matron, 36th District, including a very impressive narration during the presentation. She also presented a gift to the worthy matron and worthy patron.

The worthy matron and worthy patron were escorted to the altar by the conductress and associate conductress for a ceremony in their honor, narrated by Mrs. Margaret Morgan. This was followed by Marjorie Cunningham singing "With A Song In My Heart" while the five star points stood in attendance.

A large vase of red roses from the chapter was presented to the worthy matron by a close friend and neighbor, Miss Jerri Schroeder, and a boutonniere was presented to the worthy patron by his niece, Miss Carol Homan.

A gavel, hand-carved by Lon Morris, past patron, was presented to Mrs. Farris by her husband.

Mrs. Genevieve Maune presented the past matrons jewel to the junior past matron, Mrs. Florence Bohon, and Ralph Morgan presented the past patrons jewel to the junior past patron, Paul Dowdy.

The worthy matron expressed her thanks and sincere appreciation and gratitude to all who participated in making the evening a memorable and happy occasion. She also outlined some of the expectations of the grand worthy matron, namely five windows of the heart: fraternal service, benevolence, jewels for His King-

Independence
Adopts New City Charter

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Independence voters adopted a new home rule municipal charter in a special referendum Tuesday, knocking more supports from under William Serron's long-time political rule of eastern Jackson County.

The new charter provides for the election of six councilmen and a mayor on a non-partisan basis in April. A city manager will be top administrator of the new setup.

The vote was 8,772 to 5,483 and only 21 of the 84 voting precincts went against the charter. The total vote — 14,255 — represents about 40 per cent of the registration.

"Last April, when we were fighting bossism and graft, people turned out 16,000 strong," said Jack C. Terry, president of the Good Government League. "This vote of 14,000 shows this trend is continuing and emphasizes that the people are still interested in good government and will work to get it."

As they often do, Harry S. Truman's neighbors rejected his stand on a local political question. The former president issued a statement against the charter.

dom, youth organizations and Americanism awareness. She then introduced a number of relatives who were present. The worthy patron also expressed his thanks and introduced his family.

Mrs. Viola Coffman, past grand matron, in her remarks stated the gavel furnished by her for the installation had been made from a portion of the organ in the old Temple, thus bringing some of the old to the new; this being the first Eastern Star installation in the new Temple. Remarks were also made by Drusilla Krockenberger, district deputy grand matron, 36th District.

Following the benediction by Rev. Roy B. Stribling, pastor of the First Methodist Church, a reception, sponsored by the past matrons and patrons, was held in the dining room, Mrs. Carrie Hodges acting as general chairman. The table was covered with a lace cloth, centered with a bouquet of red roses and silver lighted tapers. Mrs. Henry Nieman presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Anne Brown at the coffee service.

Guests were registered by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Aulgar.

Entering Trouble Spot

JFK's Latin Trip to Call
For Special Safety Steps

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's journey to Latin America undoubtedly will call forth special precautions for his safety.

His first stop on Dec. 16 will be Caracas, Venezuela. That was the site 2½ years ago of riots in which then Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon were stoned and spat upon in one of the most hostile demonstrations ever made against an American official of such high stature.

This will be in the mind of the U.S. Secret Service, whose duty it is to protect the President. This fact is underscored by the stoning Monday night of cars bringing six U.S. senators into Caracas from the airport. Stones flew when the cavalcade stalled in traffic before a high school and students cut loose. There have been a number of student demonstrations over the past few weeks, following Venezuela's cutting off diplomatic ties with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The visiting senators passed of the attack on them as something from a few trouble makers. U.S. Embassy officials said they were confident that Venezuela would tighten the protection for President Kennedy.

U.S. security officers were hesitant to say whether extra steps would be taken to safeguard Kennedy during his 24-hour stay in the Venezuelan capital. An advance force of Secret Service agents will cover the ground there. Until they report back, officials here cannot determine just what precautions will be taken for the Kennedys.

When former President Dwight D. Eisenhower visited Latin America last spring, there were demonstrations in Buenos Aires and Montevideo, but nothing of the sort to which Nixon was subjected in Caracas.

In Buenos Aires on Feb. 26 of last year, Eisenhower encountered demonstrations by supporters for former dictator Juan Peron. Police used tear gas to quell them at one point and Eisenhower got a sniff of it.

Then in Montevideo on March 2, 1960, there was a demonstration by students in front of the University of Montevideo, a center of Communist activities.

Police brought out tear gas and fire hoses. Again Eisenhower got some of the gas and rubbed his eyes for a time, although he dismissed the demonstration as "a very small thing" in comparison with the enthusiasm of the bulk of the people who greeted him.

There was a small demonstration, too, when Nixon was in Montevideo on his 1958 trip to Latin America.

It is to Venezuelan authorities that the Secret Service must look to the major share of the task of safeguarding the President and

Flea Circus Is Troubled With Mortality Rate

BRIGANTINE, N.J. (AP)—The performers in John Torp's circus have been dying off like fleas lately.

Matter of fact, the performers in John Torp's circus are fleas. The little varmints live only four or five months, and they won't breed in cold weather.

So Torp, 29, a native of Denmark, and his partner, Max Kison, left their headquarters here Tuesday with about 40 tiny performers, headed for warmer climes.

"Nationwide, there's no shortage of fleas," Torp said, "but they're hard to find here now."

Just any old flea can't join the circus. Cat and dog fleas, which will breed almost any place, won't do.

"What I want are the large black, six-legged fleas—like you find on people," he said.

Lie Detector
For Builder

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — County Atty. Hugh Kreamer said John F. Schneider, 44 year old builder from Corder, Mo., agreed to lie detector questioning today about the theft of $4,500 worth of furnishings from a display house in Overland Park, a Kansas City suburb.

Six persons are charged either with stealing the furnishings or fraudulently collecting insurance on them. The others are Branch Milton (Tiny) Wainwright, a former Teamsters Union official at Springfield, Mo.; Ernest G. Anderson, a former Teamster official in Kansas City, and three Springfield men—James R. Caffee, Archie M. Lamb and Doyle Howard Mace.

Wainwright and Anderson were arrested in Olathe and face arraignment in magistrate's court Monday. Lamb, Caffee and Mace are in jail at Springfield. Schneider has not been arrested. He headed a construction company which built and displayed the house.

The complaint charges Schneider and Anderson, an employee, gave Wainwright and Mace a set of keys to the house. Caffee and Lamb are charged with removing the furnishings. Schneider's company subsequently recovered $4,500 in insurance. He, Wainwright, Anderson and Mace are charged with fraud.

Put the sugar and water into a small pan, boil until it will form a thread between your forefinger and thumb. Pour it slowly on to the beaten egg yolks, and beat until very thick. Beat in the rum or brandy, and lastly, the whipped cream. Either pour around the pudding or serve separately. Chill before serving with hot plum pudding.

Heat the ale with the sherry, spices and lemon rind, simmer five minutes. Meantime bake the apples 'til just soft with sugar and enough ale to taste well. Then add all to the spiced ale, adding more sugar if desired. Serve hissing hot in tankards or mugs.

Famine and Failure Hobble Red China's 'Forward Leap'

EDITOR'S NOTE—Red China is in trouble. Because of mistakes at the top, her unsteady economy shows signs of serious breakdown. The Communists refuse to permit American reporters to set foot on the mainland to see for themselves what is going on. Based on a worldwide survey of authoritative opinion and the testimony of refugees, here is a report on what's happening in China today, why, and what may be expected next.

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO — The Chinese sage Confucius, surveying the China of his day, said: "The people must have enough to eat; there must be an adequate army; and the people must have confidence in their ruler."

Though he wrote this sentence 2,400 years ago, it echoes with a terrible immediacy in the China of 1961, many of whose 670 million inhabitants are hungry, overworked and disillusioned with their Marxist masters.

Since the beginning of this year, when the Communist Central Committee ordered a sharp cut-back in the industrial "Great Leap Forward" and decreed that the whole nation "must concentrate on strengthening the agricultural front," it has been evident that China was undergoing its most serious crisis in a decade.

Official figures, which, taken with a grain of salt, have in the past reflected at least an approximate picture of the true state of affairs on the teeming mainland, have this year been suppressed except for that of steel which Peiping said exceeded its 18,400,000-ton target by 50,000 tons.

Despite the secrecy, one thing is apparent. Chairman Mao Tse-tung's revolutionary and controversial scheme to accomplish a massive surge in agriculture through a system of communes, herding thousands of peasants under the same administrative roof, has broken down.

Failure of this bold venture, which Soviet Premier Khrushchev criticized at the start as "unrealistic," has contributed heavily to a disastrous grain shortage on which the entire Chinese economy is precariously balanced.

The 1960 goal for grain was 270 million tons. Observers estimate the nation fell between 20 million and 85 million tons short.

Confronted with this grave situation, Mao refused to abandon his brainchild. Instead, he called for a tactical retreat, decentralized control, taking it from the hands of the commune and handing it down to the smaller production brigades, a collection of villages which in the pre-commune past made up the old agricultural producers cooperatives.

Then he gave the signal for an epic migration of some 20 million men, women and youths from the cities to the beleaguered countryside in a desperate effort to shore up the damage that had been inflicted.

Stories published in recent months on the hunger and suffering which followed in the wake of the collapse of the communes have ranged from the embittered report of Shao Hsiayen, 29, a pilot who defected from the Red air force in September, to the rosy observations of British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

Shao said the situation in the communes was "indiscreetly miserable," malnutrition rampant and that children fight for scraps of food.

Montgomery, taken on a guided tour, said "all the people I saw looked happy, and I saw no case of malnutrition; in some areas food may have been a bit scarce on occasions, but there was enough."

The truth appears to lie somewhere in between these extremes. In an effort to separate the wheat from the chaff, The Associated Press interviewed refugees and travelers arriving in Hong Kong, checked official sources in Tokyo, London and Washington, talked to trained observers who have spent several years on the mainland.

Washington reports that there is every reason to believe China's grain food production in 1961, including potatoes and sweet potatoes, will be about the 1957 level of 185 million metric tons.

This might be sufficient if the population had remained stationary. But since 1957 some 60 million more mouths have been added to the staggering hordes Peiping must feed.

The official view in London is that three successive bad harvests have caused food shortages, forced the Chinese into tight rationing but that this last measure has kept the problem in check, "something that may not have been likely under a more corrupt regime."

Though the situation is bad, there are no evidences of widespread starvation nor of the famines which snuffed out the lives of millions in the pre-Communist days.

All sources agree, down to defector Shao and including some of the most critical of the refugees, that there is almost no prospect of a massive revolt of the kind Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek periodically predicts from his island stronghold of Formosa.

In London, highly placed authorities add that the regime is not endangered from any source.

Though the grain shortage has struck sharp blows to every sector of the national life, the Communist leadership continues to exert itself in an aggressive, confident manner.

Confronted with the inescapable facts, Mao has applied the brakes to industrial expansion and given the entire economy a breathing spell in preparation for new, and perhaps more vigorous attempts to industrialize the country.

The failure of the communes also has convinced him, perhaps sadly, that communism in China cannot be realized in his lifetime. The existence of the Chinese crisis by now has been firmly established. But what were the reasons for it? And what is the outlook for the future?

The root of the matter goes back 12 years ago when Mao and his battle-toughened companions, victorious over the American-backed troops of Chiang Kai-shek, took over the destinies of China. Mao's long-range goal, which he announced from the outset, was to impose the doctrines of Karl Marx on a weak, disordered country.

To do so, he had first to eradicate the philosophy of Confucius which had nourished the nation for thousands of years with its emphasis on the family, the superior man, ancestor worship and acceptance of the status quo. Mao planned to bring China to communism through prolonged periods of controlled capitalism, and cooperative socialism.

He needed the nation united behind him and accomplished this by dividing the country into military and administrative districts, stamping out inflation, redistributing land to the peasants and wiping the corruption of the recent past.

Though he may have scorned the philosophy of Confucius, he followed the sage's injunction to make the army strong, keep it well fed and satisfied.

These measures restored to the Chinese a fierce pride in their race buried under the humiliations of a century of foreign injustice and exploitation.

Once it gained power, however, the Communist party was split at the very top by a great debate which has caused the economy to develop in uneven fits and starts.

Mao heads a group of theoreticians who include Liu Shao-chi, Marshal Chu Teh, Teng Hsiao-ping and Marshal Lin Biao, which wants to see the revolution carried out swiftly to its final conclusion.

Premier Chou En-lai leads an opposition administrators' group who recognize the difficulties of moving such a huge country into communism overnight.

Mao, who dominates the debate though he has lost much ground, shortened the planned period of capitalism, took away the land from the peasants, then organized them into agriculture producer cooperatives.

In doing so he had to crush a nationwide rebellion of the very peasants he had earlier won over with his open-handed land reform policy.

The cooperatives had hardly had time to test themselves before Mao then undertook his grandiose communes program, bringing millions under total regimentation.

In his zeal to make a "Great Leap Forward" in industry, Mao siphoned off a gigantic 35 million people from the countryside, leaving behind only women, the middle-aged and the old to run the infant project.

In 1959 the first of the big floods, typhoons, droughts and locust invasions struck the farm areas. Bureaucracy, lack of mechanization, and the general backwardness of the country caused the failure to carry out a long-term period of capitalism, shook the very structure of the communes.

Militarization of the rural areas has been shelved since there is no time for training the militia which Marshal Lin Biao once boasted would put 200 million men under arms.

Urban communes were quietly dropped.

In the countryside itself a new pattern emerged. Farmers were encouraged to cultivate privately owned plots of land to enhance the dwindling food supply.

Communal messhalls—once a source of bitter complaint because of their bad food and organization—continue, but permission now is given to collect food rations and eat them at home.

From Hong Kong has come some more detailed stories of actual conditions.

Miss Sun Yi, 24, a textile engineer from Shanghai, reported: "Life in Shanghai and Hangchow is far better than that of any other city in China, including Peiping. But even in Shanghai the food shortage is acute. The daily rice rations averages one catty (1.33 pounds) for each person and the monthly oil ration is about five taels, (6.65 ounces)."

"This may sound like a lot of rice to people living outside of Communist China," she said. "But when you eat nothing but rice, you feel hungry all the time."

Lam Yan, 24, a graduate of Nan Kai University in Tientsin volunteered to be a common laborer because the food ration was higher than for clerks and ordinary office workers.

He said early this year 7,000 dock workers staged a sit-down strike in Canton to protest exports of rice to Hong Kong. The strike ended 11 days later when the authorities promised to hand out one catty of sweet potato in addition to one catty of rice to each worker.

"I was sent to work in the fields during busy harvest seasons," he said. "There the conditions were horrible. The rice ration in the countryside is about 50 per cent of that in the city. Practically everyone suffered from malnutrition. Many elderly farmers died while they were working in the fields."

Said a 22-year-old Communist cadre who had fled from Kwangtung Province because of hunger: "Discontent in my hometown was widespread. Many farmers just sat down in the fields without

Cigar Puffers Blow Good Winds for Tobacco Firms

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are smoking more cigars this year than any time since 1923—fewer from Havana this year than last, but more made of tobacco grown in the Philippines, Sumatra, Java and Puerto Rico.

Uncle Sam's troubles with Fidel Castro as yet have brought no ban on tobacco imports—as they did long ago against sugar, an embargo extended Monday by President Kennedy until next June 30.

But Carl J. Carlson, president of the Cigar Manufacturers Association of America, said in an in-

Ned Monsees Wins Three Cattle Awards

Ned Monsees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Monsees, Smithton, was honored with three awards at the annual Dairy Banquet held at the Student Union Building, Columbia, Dec. 2.

William Sikkes, manager of the Bank of Cooperatives, St. Louis, presented him with a trophy for winning first in the judging of Holstein dairy cattle, first in the judging of Jersey dairy cattle, and for being a member of the highest-ranking dairy judging team.

The contest was open to all students enrolled in the college of Agriculture, and Monsees scored 584 points out of a possible 600 points.

Other members of the judging team were John Fitzgerald, of Houstonia, and James Settles of Matthews.

Monsees is a sophomore in the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri.

TV Messages Jammed Into Break Times

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Is TV selling us more and are we enjoying it less? Amid all the talk about trends, one which has been overlooked is TV's growing habit of clustering all sorts of commercials around that inevitable "pause for station identification" every half hour.

The other night I counted the commercials thrown at me from the moment the hero of one show delivered the villain to the local jail until the action-filled "teaser" of the next program showed a man being hit over the head.

There were six—and I am counting those "stay-tuned-to" exhortations about the following attraction as a commercial. They sure aren't entertainment, news or public affairs announcements.

On that particular occasion, the six consisted of a final sales spiel "the alternate sponsor," the usual plea to stay tuned to the next show, a network plug for a program to be broadcast the next night, two commercials crammed into the 40 seconds during which, in a flashing of an eye, the network and station identified itself, and finally, the first commercial of the next show. Added to this was the leisurely wind-up of the first show—with credits to everybody connected with the production, including the customer's assistant—it lingered on the final group of lesser names in order to have the show's jazz theme come to an end—plus another credit list at the beginning of the new show.

An advertising man who was complaining about the increasing invasion of so-called "program time" by this sort of thing, estimated that networks and local stations are cutting about seven minutes out of every half-hour of TV. Commercial announcements are supposed to take three minutes out of 30.

"Victoria Regina," according to one rating service, romped home Thursday night with the lion's share of the audience on an evening when all three networks were competing for audiences with special shows. "CBS Reports," showing a documentary "Biography of a Bookie Joint," pulled its biggest audience of the season and ran almost even with the ABC variety show starring Yves Montand.

ABC's Sunday night episode of "Bus Stop," with rock 'n' roll singer Fabian making his dramatic debut, was a double dose of violence and savagery—mor-

It was the story of an arrogant, ruthless teen-age killer (chillingly played by Fabian) who runs across an alcoholic older woman. The result was the destruction of both.

Unfortunately, the story didn't say much except that older women in their cups should avoid murderous hitch-hikers. But if they can find enough cold, sinister roles for Fabian, he ought to have quite a career ahead of him as a junior Peter Lorre.

Actor Husband Divorced Over His Apartment

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marjorie Kruschen, 39, won an interlocutory divorce decree Monday from her actor husband, Jack Kruschen, 39.

She testified that Kruschen "took an apartment two years ago, and would come and go as he pleased. When I would ask him what he was doing or where he was going or when he was coming home, it was none of my business." They were married in 1947.

An apartment figured in his biggest movie success—he won an Academy Award nomination as the best supporting actor last year for his portrayal of the doctor in "The Apartment."

Supply Shortages, Bad Morale At Some Army Reserve Camps

NEW YORK — Complaints of poor morale and supply shortages are arising at some of the camps where National Guard and reserve units have been called back into service.

As during World War II and the Korean War, the military is being accused of using "hurry up and wait" tactics—hurrying men into uniform and then not being prepared for them.

A teacher writes that much of his time is spent picking up cigarette butts and leavings.

Rickety barracks stripped partially of equipment are reported being used in another camp. Still another is said to have issued obsolete and non-operation weapons.

Has the military actually let down the men it called back to the colors or are the complaints as draft director Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey commented, simply the traditional griping of soldiers?

"If any Army unit ever did anything without griping they'd either be lying or mutes," Hershey said.

Pentagon sources say that out of 119,000 Army reservists and Guardsmen called back, less than 1 per cent have put in complaints.

This estimate, the sources said, was based on letters and other communications received at all Army levels.

Maj. Gen. William H. Harrison, president of the National Guard Association, said "the griping of a few individuals" is casting a shadow upon the patriotism and spirited response of the Guardsmen and reservists.

"These complaints, in some instances," he said, "are from men who have already served on extended active duty and resent a second callup when so many of their friends and neighbors have performed no military service."

He said there should be changes in the law and policy.

The matter reached a climax last week when President Kennedy devoted a part of his news conference to answering critics.

The President, whose own record includes heroic wartime service in the Navy, took particular note of complaints about Ft. Lewis, Wash.

He said the men there may be serving in a cold and windy camp, but they "are rendering the same kind of service to our country as an airman standing at 15-minute alert at a SAC base in Omaha is rendering."

"We call them in to prevent a war, not to fight a war."

It is natural for the men to be unhappy, the President said. "It is a heavy sacrifice. They go to camps which have perhaps been newly opened or where the equipment may not be immediately available."

But he asked them to recognize that they are contributing to the security of their families and he held out hope they may be sent home short of their required 12 months of service.

The President said he called reserve units up this summer to strengthen the armed forces because we "want to have a choice between humiliation and holocaust."

Maj. Gen. Edward H. McDaniel, Army inspector general, is investigating conditions at Ft. Lewis, where Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., has made accusations of "criminal negligence."

The Wisconsin representative started a controversy over whether the Army made adequate preparations there to take care of his state's 37th Infantry Division.

He called it a "lost division" with obsolete and poorly operating weapons and short supplies. This brought a denial by the Army and a charge from the division commander, Maj. Gen. H. A. Smith, that O'Konski had damaged the unit's morale and made the troops appear a "bunch of crybabies."

Most of O'Konski's charges also were contradicted indirectly by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who followed him on an inspection of the camp.

Proxmire reported he found many things wrong, but that the Army was making a sincere effort to straighten them out.

The major trouble, he said, was that the Army hadn't told the men exactly why they were called up, how long they must serve and why they were sent to Ft. Lewis, instead of Camp McCoy in Wisconsin.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., also was a party to the dispute. He accused O'Konski of doing a "great disservice" to the division by his "extravagant" charges.

Other complaints have developed at Ft. Polk, La., where National Guardsmen from a number of Southern and Western states have been training.

A group of nearly 100 enlisted men from the 49th Armored Division there wrote a letter to Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex., complaining about conditions.

They also protested that while they had prior service "back at home there are those who have never been called to duty."

Earlier, reporter Ben House of the Columbus (Ga.) Ledger visited the camp and found conditions "deplorable."

Guardsmen were living in dusty, rickety barracks, long abandoned and partially stripped of such necessary equipment as toilets, laboratories and light switches, he wrote.

Another reporter, Buddy Threatt of the Lake Charles (La.) American-Press, found conditions somewhat different, however.

He said they "seem no better—or worse—than the regular Army barracks used by GIs in other times."

An information officer at the camp declared that since a part of it had been closed since 1954, some of the buildings naturally "were going to deteriorate."

But he said that conditions were improving rapidly and that many of the shortages complained of already have been filled.

Congressional complaints also arose over Air National Guard units called up and sent overseas.

Rep. George Huddleston, D-Ala., said he had received reports that some members of the 117th Reconnaissance Wing, now based in Paris, were just sitting around with nothing to do.

Pentagon officials blamed it on air traffic control problems and said discussions were under way with French authorities to clear up the situation.

Rep. R. Walter Riehlman, R-N.Y., also complained about conditions in Phalsbourg, France, where two National Guard air units were sent.

On a visit, he said, he found they had legitimate complaints about food, living conditions and mail service.

Reporter Jack Foiese of the San Francisco Chronicle visited Ft. Ord in California and said troops were spending their time waiting for equipment, listening to old lectures, seeing old training films and "manicuring" their barracks areas.

One soldier said that all he had done was paint numbers on walls and posts.

Despite the criticism of some camps, reports from other military installations indicated few complaints.

In Kansas, for example, Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., said facilities were excellent.

At Ft. Stewart, Georgia, about 1,400 members of National Guard and reserve units have been processed and are being trained. Conditions were reported adequate.

Fallout Shelters In Igloo Fashion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here's a switch from the old story about Americans trying to sell refrigerators to the Eskimos: Canadians are trying to sell igloos to Americans for fallout shelters.

They're not the old-fashioned ice and snow igloo but are of a fibrous plastic material in an igloo shape and can accommodate eight persons. Canada's civil defense organization has approved them as underground shelters.

Railway Holding Up One Passenger Route

WASHINGTON (AP)—Discontinuation of passenger train service by the Chicago Great Western between Kansas City and Minneapolis has been held up at least four months.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the postponement Tuesday to allow an investigation of complaints. The CGW had planned to stop the train Dec. 16.

Tennesseans Present In 2 New Films

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Paramount and Warner Bros. are suiting their own brand of cheer for the holiday season-films from early Tennessee Williams works.

They may be early, but the standard Tennesseans are all there: the frustrated, middle-aged women, the sex-minded, insensitive younger men, the dotty mothers, the stern fathers, the rapacious townspeople.

You know—the kind of people you meet in every day life.

"The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," is the more artful of the two offerings. It was adapted from Williams' early (1937) and only novel, which somehow anticipated "La Dolce Vita."

Mrs. Stone is a fiftyish, widowed stage star who goes to Rome to forget or find herself or something. She gets involved with a crone who acts as a kind of casting agent between Roman boys and rich, middle-aged American women. The result: a flaming romance between Mrs. Stone and the twentyish, no-good Paolo.

The flaw in the fable is Vivien Leigh, but only because she is so good. One cannot imagine a woman of her beauty, taste and sensibility throwing the key to her apartment to a youthful stranger, Warren Beatty is somewhat more articulate than he was in "Splendor in the Grass." But no actor can preserve much grace in the role of a gigolo, especially when handicapped with a phony accent.

The major assets of the film are some striking shots of Roman scenery and the promise shown by Jose Quintero, already one of Broadway's best directors.

The other entry in the holiday festival is "Summer and Smoke," which offers the more native Williams. The film smells of cornpone and magnolia, along with musty lavender.

In this one, the heroine gets kissed and sighs, "I'm beginning to feel like a water lily on a Chinese lagoon." She usually prefaced her remarks by "I do declare," and her lifelong next-door neighbor calls her "Miss Alma."

He scoffs at her aloofness and declares, "There's another person inside you, dying to be freed."

If you have been exposed to the Tennessee art, you may feel you have covered this territory before. You're right. Though Geraldine Page is a gifted actress, there's little she can do to make the cheerless old maid interesting either to the young doctor next door or to the movie patron.

Nor can Laurence Harvey do much with the doctor, who turns from libertine to idealist in an unconvincing conversion. Best of the bunch is Una Merkel as the mother with a passion for ice cream cones and kleptomania. She seems almost the normal one.

Both films end with the same scene. The Misses Leigh and Page throw themselves into the arms of lads they don't even know. What all this proves, I don't know.

Robber Phones Detective To Come Get Him

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bartender John Karem, 28, called long distance to a detective in Boston, where he's wanted in a bank robbery case, then waited patiently Tuesday to surrender to St. Louis authorities summoned by the Boston officer.

Boston police said Karem is on probation in one bank robbery and is charged with conspiracy to commit robbery in connection with another.

Karem said he decided to call Detective Allan Crisp of Boston on impulse.

Karem told Crisp, "I just want to get it over with," and agreed to wait in the drug store for St. Louis detectives to pick him up.

'Threepenny Opera' Will End Stage Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Mack the Knife and "The Threepenny Opera" end Off-Broadway's longest stage run Dec. 17.

The producers announced Tuesday the "absolutely positive" windup of the Kurt Weill-Bertolt Brecht musical. The show's tune about its fearsome hero was a long-run jukebox favorite.

"Threepenny" opened in 1954 and will have compiled 2,611 consecutive performances at the 299-seat Theater De Lys in Greenwich Village. During the run, 709 performers have appeared in the 22 roles, and 752,000 spectators have paid $3 million at the boxoffice.

Courtesy Firm Has 675 Traffic Tickets

CHICAGO (AP) — A company named Courtesy has been served with 675 summonses for traffic violations from 1958 through 1960. The firm is Courtesy Lease-Save Plan, Inc., a division of Courtesy Motor Sales, Inc.

Police Capt. John J. Nelligan said each offense carries a maximum fine of $200 upon conviction. Jim Moran, owner of the parent firm, said he doesn't know whether the leasing company or its customers can be held liable for violations by drivers of rented autos.

COMPARE THE LARK WITH THIS ONE: RAMBLER?

Measure the Lark 4-door against the comparable Rambler Classic 4-door sedan and discover Lark gives you a 5-inch longer wheelbase, more head and leg room, choice of a 6 or V-8 instead of only a 6, a 112 to 225 horsepower range rather than 127 to a top of 138. Plus padded instrument panel at no extra charge. Just a sample of Lark's many advantages over Rambler at lower prices for comparable models.

Office Telephone Becomes Another Employee Benefit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Now and then a memo such as this is circulated in every office in America:

"These phones are strictly for the conduct of company business, upon which the livelihood of the firm depends. Employees wishing to make emergency private calls during working hours will please use the pay telephones in the corridor."

Management always launches these memos with high hopes, but they would be just as effective if they were printed in Chinese, and floated out to sea in a sealed bottle.

For a day or two the hired hands dutifully drop their coins in the pay phone, then they go back one by one, to slipping their private calls through the office switchboard again.

In two weeks everything is back to normal, which means—the switchboard is so swamped with personal calls that anyone having to make a call on company business has to go out and use the pay phone in the corridor.

Who makes all these private calls, and what is the desperate nature of their emergencies? Well here are a few typical characters you have probably overheard in your own office.

Hungry Harry—Life is just one long coffee break to him. Three times a day he phones the drug-store lunch counter for java, sandwiches, doughnuts, pie, and cheesecake. At 5:15 he makes his final call: "Rush up some sodium bicarb. Joe, my stomach feels kinda tense."

Helpful Herbert—In the sweet name of charity he calls a dozen acquaintances a day to sell tickets for his lodge's latest raffle. "For only four-bits you get a chance to win a $4,000 convertible and free trip to Puerto Rico," he says. "How many shall I put you down for?" For every 12 tickets he sells,

Herb gets a free one himself. High-fashion Hortense—The secretary does her shopping by phone whenever the boss is in conference. "What have you got new in cocktail dresses at about $39.95?" she asks her favorite department store saleslady. And that ties up that phone line for 45 minutes.

Odds-On Ollie—The office gambler usually places four calls with his bookie in the morning, and three in the afternoon. The bookie usually calls him back three times in the morning and four times in the afternoon. Net result at closing time: Ollie has lost two bucks.

Casanova Charlie—He picks up his desk phone and croons to Nellie, the giddy new switchboard operator. "Talk to me, baby, I've had a lonesome life." While he and Nellie pitch vocal woo, the switchboard is tied up completely. She can't be bothered putting through any other calls.

Homebody Hubert—Every half hour he phones home to see if his shirts got back from the laundry, if the baby has broken out with the measles or a new tooth, if his wife wants to go to a movie that night, if so, which movie, to ask what'll they have for dinner, should he stop to pick up anything, and whether anything new has happened since he called half an hour before.

Old Bubblehead Himself—The boss only makes two kinds of personal calls. In the morning he phones seven to eight executive buddies in other firms trying to set up a golf foursome. In the afternoon—if he isn't playing golf—he phones his broker six times to say, "Remember now, if Amalgamated Twiddlywinks goes up to 87, sell every share I've got and put it all in International Widgits, that is, if International Widgits is holding steady."

The great mystery of American industry is this: "With all these emergency personal messages tying up office switchboards, how does any business firm ever manage to get any business done?"

The answer is simple. No business is transacted in offices anymore. It's all done in restaurants during those three-hour lunches. The office phones are now merely another employee fringe benefit.

MYF Candy Makers Get Project Going

The 37 young people who are members of the MYF of the First Methodist Church are busy these days making candy and packing it into coffee cans they have attractively decorated, which they will sell as a project.

This is the first of a number of projects they plan to have from now until next summer so they can again take a trip like they did last year, which proved to be a real inspiration for the group.

In order to be eligible for the trip next summer the youngsters must attend MYF and participate in its activities. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mowry are counselors for the group.
